

State Pension Forecast

What is my 'State Pension Forecast'?

A State Pension forecast will show you how much State Pension you could receive and the date you can receive it. You cannot obtain a forecast if you are already receiving your State Pension or if you have delayed ('deferred') claiming it. Your forecast is not a guarantee and is based on the current law.

Why do I need to obtain a State Pension Forecast?

To enable your Pension Transfer Specialist to determine your financial income requirements in retirement details of all your pension entitlements will be required: both private pension and state pension provisions.

How do I get a State Pension Forecast?

Click here to go to the government website:

www.gov.uk/check-state-pension

You will need to verify your identity as part of the process, either through your Government Gateway account if you have one, or by using the GOV.UK verify service.

Step 1

Follow the steps online. If you need to create an account you will need to have to hand: passport, National Insurance number or other documents that can be used to verify your identity. You may have already used this service in the past, in which case your normal login details may be used. Option 2 tends to be most successful.
